

Use of Correct Verb

The subject (noun) of a sentence can be singular (one) or plural (many). A verb has to agree with its subject; therefore, if the noun is singular the verb must also be singular.

Example of incorrect sentence: The cars (plural subject) was (singular verb) parked.

Example of correct sentence: The cars (plural subject) were (plural verb) parked.

Q. Rewrite the following sentences with the correct verb in the spaces provided.

a. There (is/are) many people on the bus in the morning.

---

b. Animals (has/have) a tendency to behave defensively.

---

c. There (were/was) a serious accident on the road.

---

d. Slow moving vehicles (is/are) likely to cause delays.

---

e. The level of theft and violence (has/have) increased.

---

f. Producing medicine (is/are) a lengthy process.

---