

Simple and Compound Sentences

Simple sentences are basic sentences with one clause (expresses one idea)

e.g. China has a large population.

Compound sentences are when two more simple sentences are joined together by connectives to form a greater meaning.

e.g. China has gained a global powerhouse status due to its large population thriving economy.

Q. Convert these simple sentences into compound sentences.

a) Water UK purifies water.

b) South Africa is now a developed region.

c) White sand is known to be a beautiful attribute to beaches.

d) Cancer is currently incurable.

e) Science is relative.

f) History is a contributing factor to many nations.

g) Crime is an inevitable issue.
